Temporary lodging allowances

38. In November 1957, shortly after the change in the currency rate 25X1
25X1 at which [redacted] employees could exchange U. S. dollars for [redacted] 25X1
25X1 some [redacted] hotel bills were exceeding their maximum allowable temporary lodging allowances. [redacted] officials asked 25X1
25X1 [redacted] whether they could pay the entire hotel bills under 25X1 25X1 [redacted] In its reply, [redacted] stated in part:

25X1 [redacted]

25X1 On the basis of this reply, [redacted] is paying the entire hotel bills even though they exceed the maximum TLA. However, paragraph 7d of
25X1 [redacted] specifically states that none of the provisions of the regulation affect in any way existent regulations and procedures concerning the payment of temporary lodging allowances. Furthermore, we believe that the 25X1 [redacted] had no intention of considering the hotel rooms rented by newly arrived employees as temporary quarters furnished under [redacted] 25X1
25X1 [redacted] should take action to change its policy on this matter or to request Headquarters for a decision as to its property.
